Dispute Resolution: A Sampler of the Spectrum

CPD credit: 3.5 hours

Cost: $230.00

Dispute resolution processes are now recognized as mainstream processes, as opposed to alternative processes, that take pressure off the courts and increase access to justice. Duties to use dispute resolution processes are incorporated into legislation and lawyers' Codes of Ethics. The spectrum of processes ranges from collaborative negotiation to mediation, med-arb, and arbitration before arriving at the adversarial end of the spectrum – litigation.

Six presentations will explore current themes in the practice of dispute resolution across various fields of law while highlighting how dispute resolution processes take pressure off the courts, as well as provide a cost-effective and deeper level of satisfaction to clients

Documentation Automation Technology – What It Can Do For You

CPD credit: 2 hours

Cost: $115.00

Drafting is a bottleneck and pressure point in almost every law office. As a result, document automation technology has had a huge impact on the legal world, and it is one of the most disruptive technologies of the last 25 years. If you are in the business of producing complex documents, then its benefits are significant. Properly deployed, this technology can exponentially decrease drafting time and costs, increase accuracy and profitability, be used as a teaching tool, and shared with others in your office. In the era of COVID-19, one of DA's biggest benefits may be that it allows lawyers who know very little about Microsoft Word to generate complex, perfectly formatted documents with no assistance from staff. You'll learn about the wide spectrum of options for this technology, how they work, how to evaluate the alternative products, and what is involved if you want to incorporate this technology into your practice.

Children Who Resist Contact with a Parent in the Post-Separation Environment: A Review of Current Literature and Practice Implications

CPD credit: 1.5 hours
Cost: $115.00

When a child resists contact with a parent in the post-separation environment, the “go-to” diagnosis is usually parental alienation. Rather than asking, “What may be the underlying causes of a child’s resistance?” the question often becomes, “Is a parent guilty/not guilty of parental alienation?” This 1.5-hour seminar explores the many reasons why a child may be resistant to parental contact in the post-separation environment, including the possibility of parent alienation.

Wills and Estates Refresher

CPD credit: 4.5 hours
Cost: $230.00

Most lawyers have assisted clients with estate planning and preparation of wills. For some, it is a regular part of their practice. For others, it is a service that they offer sporadically. In either event, lawyers must remember that every client is unique and drafting a will can often be a complex exercise. To ensure that you are providing the best possible legal service to your clients, it is important to refresh your grasp of the fundamentals. Professors Freedman and Thomson are subject matter experts who will be providing guidance on best practices from the initial retainer up to the reporting letter and closing of your file.

How to Achieve Great Career Success in the Legal Profession

CPD credit: 2.5 hours

Cost: $115.00

Defining success in the legal profession is a tricky matter. Within law firms, traditional success has always consisted of 1) prevailing in court, 2) advancing to equity partnership, and 3) making a lot of money. Many people still think that these are the key attributes to building a successful career.

The journey to achieve career success should start with creating your own vision of success based on your unique beliefs, values and aspirations. Subjective measures of success such as work/life harmony, feeling valued, a sense of meaning and purpose, service, fulfillment, legacy and building strong relationships with colleagues and/or clients need to be considered when working towards a highly successful career.
